

Mr. L'Heureux has recently retired from his role as CIO at ProHealth Care. He has extensive experience in healthcare IT leadership having served as a CIO since 1981. He has leveraged his engineering discipline to focus on both strategic development and operational oversight of complicated technological platforms and administrative and clinical applications. Among his more notable attributes is his ability to craft IT strategies that coincide and support the overall strategy of the organization.

During his career, Mr. L'Heureux has had to guide IT through two full asset mergers between competing health care organizations. Additionally, he has had to respond to several other possible acquisitions requiring disclosure, planning, and limited transparency sensitive to the insatiable appetite for information among the IT organization. Familiar with the process of due diligence and the identification and confirmation of assumed benefit, Mr. L'Heureux can provide a unique insight as to the preparation needed to ensure that a possible merger/acquisition does not result in failed expectations or unintended consequences.

Mr. L'Heureux is a Life Fellow Member of HIMSS, was the founding president of the New England Chapter, served two stints on the Board of Directors and was president in 1992. He was recognized as a 50/50 outstanding member in 2014. He has a Master's Degree in Engineering Management from Northeastern University, Boston.
